An Evening Echo.

Great men are never sufficiently shown but in struggles.—BURKE.

The time is nearly ripe to annex Mexico.

The best way to have peace in Mexico is for the United States to annex that country.

Canadian reciprocity and Mexican annexation would be great achievements of the Taft administration and both are in sight.

John R. Cole, the Exponent's recent candidate for city collector and treasurer, has not showed up yet. He probably has not heard that he was a candidate.

Harrison county farmers can sell almost everything they raise in the home markets. It will pay them to raise all they can and to do all they can to have good roads.

Canadian reciprocity is a Taft measure and he has a Democratic for it teeth and toe nails. That for it teeth and toe nail. That proves that things are coming very much Taftward.

Beans figured in an Ohio shooting scrape. The fellow who did the shooting did not use a bean-shooter either. He fired a bullet because his landlord brought in a bill for board, to which he objected because beans had been served. The next time the fellow eats beans, it will be behind prison bars and it will make no difference whether he protests against being a Bostonian.

The Democratic House of Representatives does not excite more than a ripple of interest. The insurgents and "Uncle Joe" did far more to keep interest up than Champ Clark and his understudies have up to date. This country will probably be just as well satisfied if Champ and his House do nothing.

A few months ago the Telegram was told that the coal companies were rounding up for the year and getting ready for the new busy season. It seems to miners and others that it takes a long time to close up the year's business and that the new busy season is not coming very fast. There is a strong suspicion that the tariff tinkers are not helping business along.

Much is being said about the United States as a world-wide peace nation, but there will be little peace for Mexican federalists and rebels the next month or so. If they do not quit firing across the border line, "Uncle Sam" has stood for about as much as he intends to stand for and every one is safe in saying that the old gentleman will likely be doing battle on Mexican soil within a month.

Railroad Business.

The seventh annual report of the Bureau of Railway News and Statistics, issued in Chicago, shows that the total revenues in the railway service of the entire United States for the year ending with June 1, 1910, was $2,797,266,000. According to Poor's Manual, the total receipts for the previous year were $2,513,212,763. While an increase of something over $284,000,000 in gross earnings is thus indicated, showing a marked improvement in the railroad business, the figures indicating the net earnings are not anything like so encouraging. The net income from operation last year was $801,542,879, as against $852,153,280 for the previous year. There was a marked increase during the last year both in operating expenses and taxes. During last year the railroads carried 4,750,103,000 tons of freight, which is far in excess of the tonnage handled during the previous year.

There was an increase during last year of 4,250 miles in main-line trackage. This is a marked increase over the construction work of the previous year, but is below the results of both 1907 and 1908. During the last decade the average of new trackage has been about 4,000 miles annually. In wages $1,137,016,508 was paid, which constituted 42 per cent of the gross earnings. Last year must be regarded as, upon the whole, a prosperous year in the railroad business, notwithstanding the increased cost of operating expenses and the consequent decrease in the net earnings.

Abolishing the Cook.

Let the cook tremble. The end of her reign may be at hand. The help problem may be solved. It all depends upon the accuracy of Dr. Robert Bell's diagnosis, announced at the Simple Life Conference in London. He says we should eat only uncooked food, that not only meats but the "natural" foods, fruits and vegetables should be served raw. Listen to him;

"Man is the only animal who cooks his food. Among wild animals we don't find disease, we don't find decayed teeth, we don't find cancer. It only in the animals that come in contact with man that we find disease."

Nor is freedom from disease the only benefit from eating uncooked food, according to the doctor. As a consequence we will live to greater ages, says the Pittsburg Dispatch. The "natural food" countries, Scandinavia, Hungary and Bulgaria, he says, are overrun by centenarians, Bulgaria having nearly 4,000, compared with only 78 in pork-eating Germany. His reasons for not cooking food are that in its natural state it contains three times the nutritive value of cooked food. Therefore, we have to eat three times as much and give our digestive organs three times as much work. He neglects, strangely enough, the even more important argument that we have to foot a bill three times as large. Perhaps this is the real solution of the cost of living problem. But we have our doubts. The fact that animals do not cook their food may be matched by other things that man does and they do not. Neither do they use knives and forks. Must we return to our fingers also? Must civilization go with the cook? If so, it is probable her departure will be indefinitely postponed.

SLOW MARKETS

Are Not Experienced in the Southern Coal Mining Districts.

ST. PAUL, Va., April 18.—Coal production in this field is not suffering from slow markets as in other southern mining sections. A large area in the Carolina cotton mill districts draw fuel from this field, and a number of railroads obtain engine coal here. The output of the principal producers, the Clinchfield Coal Corporation, is contracted for up to the present capacity of the mines; but additional business can soon be taken on with the mine extension now under way.

The Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio railway, which serves this district in the southern markets, will this week place an order for five additional Mallet type locomotives, similar to those already in use by the company, and for two freight engines of the Mikado type. The former weigh about 400,000 pounds each, exclusive of tender, having a tractive power of 77,000 pounds. The latter will weigh 234,000 each, with a tractive power of 45,000 pounds.

EXPERT ENGRAVER.

A feature of the Parsons-Souders department store this week is a display of belt, collar and neck pins, watch fobs and hat pins, engraved by an expert engraver Jack Coker, of Asbury Park, N. J. The skill and quickness of the operator in white metal engravings is worthy of mention.

IN VERSE

Tune—Casey Jones.

(By "Kid" Carson.)

Come all ye people who want to hear
A story about an event drawing near,
The Elks Minstrels is the stunt's
name,
In their new home they'll win their fame.

The show will be in about ten days,
So,
The date and time you all know,
At this grand show you surely can bet.

There'll be lots of fun don't you forget.
The show will start at quarter past eight,
Don't you forget and get there late,
You'll have one great jolly time,
And I'll be there you can bet for mine.

Jack Knox will be there every trying,
To sing his song without crying,
And all you people must help him
out,
For he's not so strong, not so stout.
Percy Byrd will be there on an end,
Sitting there with a five to lend,
He'll sing a song about a hard luck
guy,
Had all the tough luck he could buy.

"Frog" Lewis will be on the other side,
Sitting there with lots of pride,
He'll tell you all a good story about,
A man known as a race horse tout.
Look out for that fellow named
Kane,
For he'll be there with might and main.

He'll sing a song, a good one, you
bet,
This lad's a comer, he'll get there yet.

Then Gene Richards will greet you,
too,
A story that's a live one, good and
true,
He's training hard for this old show,
You bet he'll be there from head to toe.

Four fine ballad singers all galore,
Will make you enchose for lots
more,
With sweet and melodious voices so grand.

Their equal is not within this land,
There's old Sam Bentley, of the New York Life,
Going through this world without a
wife,
He's a bachelor now and a bachelor
true,
But he'll be lots of fun for me and you.

The after part will be one grand
scream,
It gets its title from a local scene,
The jokes and take-offs will be immense,
But no one there will take offense.

So don't you dare to miss this show,
You have got to go, 'tis a debt you owe,
Charity is where the money will
land,
Help out some poor soul who needs
a hand.

Get your tickets now at Gill's Jewelry store,
You can get one or two or more,
Go there and Emmitt or Frank or Joe,
Will tell you more about this great show.
